18 well as the pleadings, exhibits, orders, and other documents previously filed in this case.

21 III. LEGAL ARGUMENT 22

23 Pretrial motions to exclude evidence are designed to simplify trials and to avoid the 24 prejudice that occurs when a party is forced to object in front of the jury to the introduction of 25 inadmissible evidence. Fenimore v. Donald M. Drake Construction Company, 87 Wn.2d 85, 26

2 89, 549 P.2d 483 (1976). When a trial court is able to determine the admissibility of 3 questioned testimony prior to its introduction at trial, it is appropriate to grant a motion in 4 limine and avoid the prejudice. State v. Kelly, 102 Wn.2d 188, 192-193, 685 P.2d 564 (1984).

6 The standards for granting a motion in limine are set forth in Fenimore:

7 [T]he trial court should grant such a motion if it describes the evidence which 8 is sought to be excluded with sufficient specificity to enable the trial court to 9 determine that it is clearly inadmissible under the issues as drawn, or which 10 may develop during the trial, and if the evidence is so prejudicial in its nature 11 that the moving party should be spared the necessity of calling attention to it by 12 objecting when it is offered during the trial. To enable the court to make such a 13 determination prior to trial and "out of context," the moving party should 14 provide a memorandum of authority showing that the evidence is inadmissible.
15

16 87 Wn.2d at 191
17

18 Federal Rule Evidence 402 provides, in pertinent part, that "evidence which is not 19 relevant is not admissible." Fed. R. Evid. 402. Relevant evidence is that "evidence having any 20 tendency to make the existence of any fact that is of consequence to the determination of the 21 action . . ." Fed. R. Evid. 401. Even relevant evidence can be excluded if the probative value 22 that evidence is substantially outweighed by the danger of unfair prejudice, confusion of the 23 issues, or misleading of the jury, or by consideration of undue delay, waste of time, or 24 needless presentation of cumulative evidence." Fed. R. Evid. 403.

25 To avoid the prejudice of objecting at trial, the Court should prevent the defendant
26 from offering evidence or argument regarding the issued outlined below.

(1) Motion to exclude expert opinions that were not properly disclosed or constitute improper opinions.

The court should prevent the defendants from offering expert opinions that they failed to disclose during discovery, as well opinions that are improper. Plaintiffs will be unfairly prejudiced if the defendants are allowed to offer expert testimony that they failed to disclose during discovery because he will not have had an opportunity to conduct discovery regarding the same. Further, Fed. R. Civ. P. 37 (c)(1) states that a party who fails to properly disclose expert opinions “is not allowed to use the information or witness to supply evidence on a motion, at a hearing, or at trial, unless the failure was substantially justified or is harmless.”

Defendants agree with this motion.

(2) Motion to exclude documents regarding Plaintiffs that were not disclosed or produced in discovery.

The Court should prevent the defendants from using or offering any documents regarding Plaintiffs that the defendants failed to produce in discovery because it would be unfairly prejudicial for the defendants to introduce a document, even for rebuttal purpose, that that Plaintiffs requested in discovery.

Additionally, to the extent defendants attempt to present exhibits not disclosed prior to trial in accordance with Fed. R. Civ. P. 26(a)(3), such documents must also be excluded. Fed R. Civ. P. 37(c)(1).

Defendants agree with this motion.

(3) Motion to exclude any argument that plaintiff failed to mitigate his damages.

The court should prevent the defendants from arguing that Plaintiff failed to mitigate his damages because the defendants have offered no evidence to support such a claim. No lay or expert witness has offered testimony stating that the Plaintiff failed to mitigate his damages, and as such, the Court should prevent the defendants from asserting such an argument. Further, Washington state law requires expert testimony where the determination of causation regarding the failure to mitigate damages turns on “obscure medical factors.”

Cox v. Keg restaurants U.S. Inc. 86 Wash.App. 239, 234. Wash. App Div1.(2005). Therefore, even though not controlling, the state law does inform this issue in that most likely only expert testimony could support such claims.

Defendants oppose this motion.

(4) Motion to exclude reference to or content from any settlement communications.

The Court should prevent the defendants from discussing the fact or content of any settlement or settlement communications with Plaintiffs or any other witness, and should order the defendants redact any records that reflect any settlement communications. The Court should exclude any evidence or argument regarding settlement communications because the existence and the content of any settlement or settlement communication is irrelevant and inadmissible. Fed. R. Evid. 408.

To the extent such evidence has any minor probative value, it is substantially outweighed by the misleading and prejudicial effect it will have on the jury because the jury

2 must decide the amount of Plaintiff's damages based on the acts and omissions of the 3 defendants, not on potential settlements that, by definition, are compromised values that do
4 not reflect the full value of Plaintiff's claims. Fed. R. Evid. 403.

6 Defendants agree to this motion.

7 (5) Motion to exclude any evidence or reference to whether Plaintiff was 8 investigated, charged or convicted of a crime that is unrelated to the police
9 conduct at issue in this case

10
11 The Court should prevent the defendants from discussing whether Plaintiff was 12 investigated, charged or convicted of a crime in the past.
13

14 First, evidence that Plaintiff was cited, arrested, or investigated for any crime should 15 be excluded because such evidence is inadmissible character evidence under Fed. E. Evid.
16 404, and Fed. R. Evid. 608. It is also inadmissible under Fed. R. Evid. 403 because any 17 potential probative value would be substantially outweighed by its prejudicial effect.
18

19 Second, evidence that Plaintiff was actually convicted for any crime should be 20 excluded because such evidence is inadmissible under Fed. R. Evid. 609(a) unless the crime 21 was (1) punishable by death or imprisonment for more than a year, and the court finds that its 22 probative value outweighs the prejudice of the party against whom the evidence is offered, or 23 (2) involved dishonesty or a false statement.

2       Finally, any evidence of past allegations, charges, or convictions of crimes are 3 irrelevant to issues in this case. Fed. R. Evid. 401; 402. The issues in this case center on 4 whether Defendants actions or inactions constituted a violation of Plaintiff's constitutional
5 rights.

7           Defendants agree with this motion.

8       (6) Motion to exclude any reference to the potential impact the verdict may 9 have on defendants or public safety.

10          The Court should prevent the defendant from offering evidence or argument 11 discussing whether a verdict against the defendants might affect insurance rates, the financial 12 wealth of the defendants, the ability of defendants to provide law enforcement services, the 13 ability or willingness of officers to provide services, or similar speculation because such 14 evidence and argument is inadmissible and irrelevant.
15

16          The defendants should be instructed that they cannot make arguments or suggestions
17 that a judgement would "come out of the pockets of the defendants" or taxpayers, because it
18 would imply that the jury should reduce the Plaintiff's actual damages because there is no
19 insurance to pay for those damages. Miller v. Staton, Wn.2d 837, 294 P.2d 799 (1964)
20 (holding that it is error for a defense attorney to make such arguments).
21

22          Similarly, the defendant should not be allowed to offer evidence or argument that a 23 verdict will negatively affect the financial wealth of the defendants, their ability to provide 24 law enforcement services, the ability or willingness of officers to provide services, or the 25 potential impact on public safety. This case presents a real risk that defendants will reference
26

2 or infer that a verdict against defendants would limit their ability to perform proper law
3 enforcement tasks in the future out of a fear of financial liability. Not only would such 4 evidence rely on pure speculation, but those issues are irrelevant to whether the defendants
5 should be held liable for their misconduct and the full amount of Plaintiff's damages.
6 Furthermore, an inference that public safety will be jeopardized by a verdict in favor of 7 Plaintiff is extremely prejudicial to Plaintiffs as it provides the jury with a personal stake in 8 the outcome of the case. Fed. R. Evid. 403.

10 The court should prevent the defendants from discussing whether a verdict might 11 affect the financial wealth of the defendants, the ability of defendants to provide law
12 enforcement services, the ability or willingness of others to provide services, the potential 13 impact on public safety, or similar speculation.

14
15 Defendants agree with this motion.

16 (7) Motion to exclude evidence regarding the “good character” or other 17 “good” acts of the defendants or their witnesses.

18
19 The court should exclude evidence regarding the “good character” or other “good”
20 acts of the defendants or its witnesses.

21 Under Fed. R. Evid. 404(a), evidence of a person's character is not admissible for the 22 purpose of providing action in conformity therewith on a particular occasion, with limited
23 exceptions. The rule prohibits the admissibility of character as substantive evidence to defend 24 a claim.

Character evidence is admissible in a civil case only in the unusual situation in which a person's character itself is an element of claim. Although character evidence may be submitted to rebut the nature of a charge in order to rebut the charge. For example, in a prosecution for indecent liberties, a defendant is not entitled to introduce testimony as to his good reputation for truthfulness in the community. See State v. Harper, 35 Wn. App. 855, 670 P.2d 296 (1983) ("Defendant's character trait for truthfulness is not a trait pertinent to the charge of indecent liberties").

Here, the defendants should not be allowed to introduce character evidence regarding its "good character" or other "good" acts. These character traits are not pertinent to Plaintiff's claims and are inadmissible under Fed. R. Evid. 404. For example, the defendants should not be allowed to discuss the benefits of their services to the community or public safety. This evidence is irrelevant and improper character evidence.

The court should exclude evidence regarding the "good character" or other "good" acts of the defendant or its witnesses.

Defendants agree with this motion unless plaintiff opens the door

(8) Motion to exclude references to plaintiff's past drug and/or alcohol use.

References to plaintiff's past drug and/or alcohol must be excluded because it is irrelevant to any of the issues in this case F. R. Evid. 401 and 402. Further, any such evidence would only serve to prejudice Plaintiff before the jury. Fed. R. Evid. 403.

Defendants oppose this motion.

3     (9) Motion to exclude reference to Plaintiff's immigration status.

5       The court should exclude any reference to Plaintiff's immigration status and prevent 6 defendants from eliciting related testimony from witnesses, including during the cross-
7 examination of the Plaintiffs.

8       The immigration status of Plaintiff must be excluded because it is irrelevant to any of 9 the issues in this case F. R. Evid. 401 and 402. Perhaps more importantly, even if immigration 10 status were somehow relevant, it is unquestionably prejudicial because “[q]uestions regarding 11 . . . immigration status are . . . designed to appeal to the trier of fact's passion and prejudice.”

12       State v. Avendano-Lopez, 79 Wn.App. 706, 718-19, 904 P.2d 324 (1995); Fed. R. Evid. 403.
13 “[I]mmigration is a politically sensitive issue. Issues involving immigration can inspire 14 passionate responses that carry a significant danger of interfering with the fact finder's duty to 15 engage in reasoned deliberation.” Salas v. Hi-Tech Erectors, 168 Wn.2d 664, 672, 230 P.3d
16 583 (2010). This Court should exclude any reference to Plaintiff's immigration status.

17
18                   Defendants agree to this motion.

19     (10) Motion to exclude reference to these motions in limine.

20
21       The court should prevent the defendants from discussing these motions in 22 limine because such evidence is irrelevant under Fed. R. Evid. 401 and 402, and is confusing
23 and prejudicial under Fed. R. Evid. 403. By definition, the Court has made the legal 24 conclusion that the evidence being excluded by this motion must not be brought, or alluded to,

2 before the jury. Any suggestion about what the jury “will not hear,” or what the defendants
3 “are presented from asking about or talking about,” is improper and should be prohibited.

5           Defendants agree to this motion.

6           (11) Motion to exclude any claim or suggestion that the individual Defendants
7 will be personally liable for compensatory or punitive damages.

8           King County provides indemnification for its employees. Therefore, any claim or 9 suggestion regarding personal liability of the defendants is improper.
10

11           Defendants agree to this motion.

12           (12) Motion to exclude any reference regarding defendants' financial status, 13 insurance or lack thereof.

14           The general rule is that parties are prohibited from making reference to their financial 15 status, insurance or lack thereof. ER 411; Cramer v. Van Parys, 7 Wn.App 584, 593-94, 500
16 P.2d 1255 (1972) (financial circumstance of parties); King v. Starr, 43 Wn.2d 115, 260 P.2d 351
17 (1953) (insurance). The evidence is also irrelevant and prejudicial under ER 402 and 403.
18

19           Defendants agree to this motion.

20           (13) Motion that during trial no mention, comment, question, argument, or other 21 reference whatsoever be made by the defense or their witnesses in the presence of the 22 jury which appeals to the self-interest of the jurors as taxpayers.
